You simply must

TATTOO your lips!

Imagine! Instead of coating your lips, you can now stain them with a transparent, even, luscious color that really stays all day... and that's fully as exciting as the adventurous South Seas from which this idea came.

Here's how you do it: apply TATTOO just like ordinary lipstick... let it set a moment... then wipe it off. And there are your lips, evenly, gorgeously, invitingly and lastingly red!

At the same time, TATTOO will actually make your lips thrillingly smooth and soft... and will keep them youthfully carefree. Yes, actually! You simply must try it.

FOUR EXCITING SHADES NEVER SEEN BEFORE

NO. 1 has an exciting, glowing pink shade. Tinted with a transparent, even, luscious color that really stays all day... and that's fully as exciting as the adventurous South Seas from which this idea came.

NO. 2 is a medium shade. A true, rich, warm shade. Tinted with a transparent, even, luscious color that really stays all day... and that's fully as exciting as the adventurous South Seas from which this idea came.

NO. 3 is a dark shade. A true, rich, warm shade. Tinted with a transparent, even, luscious color that really stays all day... and that's fully as exciting as the adventurous South Seas from which this idea came.

NO. 4 is of the type that changes color when applied to the lips. Gives an equally transparent, luscious, and a shade of warm color that is truly unique. It is called "TATTOO".

THE NEW TUNICS

Throughout the recent spell of hot weather suits still continued popular. Cool materials for these are silk crepes, taffetas and satin, or two contrasting materials, as when a linen or plique jacket is shown with a woollier skirt. The favourite shape for the jacket is of short hip-length closely fitted to the waistline, usually single-breasted with long revers, fastening with a link button. Some have slightly flared peplums about three inches below the rather low waistline. The sleeves are plain, with slight fullness or squareness on the shoulders. Another variation has small gores in the centre back of the peplum, and yet another is in the form of a long, loose-fitting bolero. Short, loose swaggy coats have extra back fullness, and are nearly always in a colour and material which contrast with the dress itself.

TUNICS

Suits with long jackets are replaced by tunics, which are generally in a printed material over plain dark skirts. This style can be adapted to suit all figures. A tunic in lame or satin is suitable for afternoon wear with a short skirt, and with a skirt of formal instep length makes an attractive dinner dress. Alternative tunic jackets may go with a plain black dress; one in simple style and material is for street wear, the same style in a richer fabric is for occasions such as lunch or cocktail parties. A detachable apron tunic of crepe may completely change the appearance of a dress. It may be plain or pleated, worn at the front or back of the skirt, or as a cape round the shoulders.

Over a dress of black romaine is worn a tunic coat of the same material with white pique revers and facings, the dress being finished at the neck with a large white pique bow. A black silk crepe skirt has a flared tunic with short puff sleeves made of a gay floral taffetas with a black background. Black and white printed pique in a large design makes an attractive coat tunic over a black skirt, the belt and Ascot scarf being of emerald green. A simple tailored style shows the tunic at the front and sides only, the back of the dress being in one piece from waist to hem, an unbroken line particularly becoming to an older woman.

THE COATEE OR CAPE BY NIGHT?

What Well Dressed Women Are Now Wearing

London, July 11. A fashion battle is raging between the coatee and cape. Which will win? It is interesting to watch as well as to take part in this contest of modes. There are active advocates on both sides, and looking round at any smart gathering in the evening, I am bound to admit that the odds are about even, writes a correspondent.

In the past few years first one and then the other has had a run, with the coatee lasting for a year or two, followed by the cape, which completely ousted its forerunner.

To-day, however, the coatee—though with a difference—is being as much worn as the cape. The feather cape, particularly when it is composed of ostrich feathers, is still going strong. The feather ones have the advantage of providing real warmth, for nothing is cooler than these ostrich wraps.

The diaphanous cape is, on this account, the more suitable type for summer evenings. The Duchess of Marlborough, who is still wearing mourning, has one which reaches nearly to the waist. It is made of the same material as its accompanying frock, black tulle with an embroidered design in black silk. She was wearing her cape thrown well back when dancing, so that it only covered the back of her gown, the shoulders being left bare.

A cape of a completely different kind again is being worn by Mrs. Audrey Marshall Field. This is of organdie, white, with an all-over, rather blurred pattern in dark blues of the Iris. This material, which has a certain amount of stiffness, gives the cape more "set" to its lines. This cape has fullness gathered on to a yoke, and could not be worn in the negligé style adopted by the Duchess of Marlborough. Mrs. Field kept hers round her shoulders.

A very short cape of net completely covered by bead embroidery in a pinky gold is being worn by Mrs. Kinell. This reaches barely more than elbow length, and is useful for theatre or opera.

TAILORED NOW

The coatee a few years ago was a straight hanging wrap, mostly of velvet in some bright hue. To-day it is a tailored thing, often with a basque, or, if without this addition, it is decidedly waisted and close fitting. Another difference from its earlier form is that the coat is generally of the same material as, or at any rate matches, the dress with which it is worn.

Lady Illingworth, for example, has a frock of ice blue satin and with this she wears a hip-length waist-coatee of the same material. It has revers and tailored coat sleeves. Mrs. Leopold Lonsdale has her coat with rather more of a basque effect, one in turquoise blue matching her dress. The Hon. Mrs. Evelyn Fitzgerald, on the other hand, at the opera the other night wore a coatee of cerise velvet which hung straight to the hips and had wide sleeves falling below the elbow. Lady Nunburn-holme, too, has a cerise coatee, but of a semi-transparent material, close fitting and distinctly basqued.

Everybody stops to look at this LACTOGEN baby!

the better milk for babies

"Baby has been fed on Lactogen from birth. Everybody stops to look at her, and people enquire as to what food she has had. My husband and I cannot speak too highly of Lactogen." Mrs. A.W.

Lactogen gives baby all the vital nourishment necessary for promoting dense bones, a sound digestive system, healthy skin, and firm flesh. Lactogen is full-cream pure English milk transformed by special Lactogen processes into an easily digested food which conforms in all important respects to breast-milk. Put your baby on Lactogen.

Mother! Send for free Lactogen sample and booklet TO NESTLE'S MILK CO. CHUNG YIN BUILDING 5, BRYAN ROAD, HONGKONG. Please send me a sample tin of LACTOGEN and a copy of your "Baby Book".

BELTS AND SASHES

Belts are important accessories to the contemporary dress scheme. Some of the newest are so wide that they look rather like corselets; others are draped cummerbunds. The wide ones are made variously of punched leather, crocheted twine, wooden plaques, massed flowers, flat shells, plaited ribbon, and knitted wool. In fact the belt may be made of practically anything that comes to mind, the chief point being to fasten it with something unusual in the way of a buckle.

COLOUR AT THE WAIST

Sashes adorn many of the new summer, evening frocks, and the sash of the moment, too, is wide and important. London fluttering ends often float down the skirt and form a double train which just rests on the ground. The evening sash may be of any material from chiffon to velvet, and is frequently used to give the colour note to white dresses—for example, a broad sash of deep, delphinium blue velvet on a white broderie Anglaise mode.

Buttons serve as decorative as well as a practical purpose this season. Most sports dresses fasten from neck to hem with them; blouses pretend to be little jackets and are similarly fastened in front. Evening gowns have bodices which button for a few inches up from the waist-line at the back. Carved wood, bone and crystal are used on daytime dresses, while synthetic jewels and tiny moulds covered with the material appear in the evening.

FOR EARLY AUTUMN
For the early autumn suits will continue to follow this line, the tunic coat being worn over a tunic blouse of contrasting material, the slim skirt matching the coat.

A dinner suit with instep length skirt of black satin has a tunic coat in the same satin worn over a blouse of pale gold lame. One-piece high-necked dinner dresses of plain coloured crepe have matching tailored jackets in floral prints, or boleros in self-material worn over gilets of lame or sequins. A short bolero made entirely of gold sequins goes with a black dress with narrow hem of the same massed sequins. Little jackets and boleros of white organdi and broderie Anglaise have pleated sleeves and ruffled neckline and are worn over slim black crepe dinner frocks.

The more formal evening dresses are cut low at back, have the narrowest of shoulder straps and a low front décolletage which may be curved, square, or one-sided. Evening coats also reflect the tunic tendency. They are double-breasted and made in stiff brocades with taffetas with pleated and puffed sleeves which fit closely just below the elbow. Capes are again popular as summer evening wraps. They are in a variety of materials, from the flimsiest net to the richest velvets.

HOLIDAY CLOTHES

Holiday pleasure depends much on the comfort of holiday clothes, and nowadays both comfort and neatness are expected.

For all forms of holiday activity
there are comfortable culottes which reach about halfway between knee and ankle. They are cut to fit closely round the hips and flare at the hem, the divided skirt only appearing with the wearer's movements. In grey or navy flannel or jersey material they are made to be worn with shirt blouses, tailored waistcoats, short tailored jackets in matching material and hand-knitted sweaters in brilliant colours. Black and a very dark shade of brown look well with vivid orange or green contrasts. A culotte hand-knitted in dark grey wool has a halter neck sweater in grey with navy stripes. With this is worn a pull-on cap of navy linen with stiffened peaked brim; and a large beach bag of blue linen completes the outfit. A three-piece linen suit is composed of orange blouse, golden yellow culottes, and a tal-lored dress of the same shade of yellow, closed from neck to them by a zip fastener. With snug fitting sweaters or cardigans buttoned to the throat these culottes make good golf suits.

DRILL IS SUITABLE

Drill is thoroughly suitable for hiking and bicycling, and for less strenuous exercise there are two-piece suits of shirt and shorts in linen and pique. The addition of a backless top with halter neckline and matching culottes makes a comprehensive holiday outfit.
For gardening and work on the farm there are dungarees and jodhpurs of heavy whipcord to be worn with brightly coloured gingham shirts.

Culotte suits of light-weight tweed, linen, or silk shantung meet the needs of travellers. They are trimly tailored; the culottes are quite plain or with double pleat in centre of the front and back, and the jacket has two or more patch pockets and a neat high neckline.

Sleeveless and collarless one-piece tennis dresses of pique, drill, or linen have flared knee-length skirts or shorts. Others have front revers and deep-cut backs and a wrap-around skirt which buttons at the side back.

Some of the newest hand-knitted suits and dresses are in new textures of wool or cotton boucle with a ribbed or pebbled effect. On others a dull surface is given by a close texture which makes them particularly suitable for slim tailored suits.

Gay colours stand out in all the beach and bathing fashions. There are swimming suits of heavy ribbed and novelty knitting, or of satin smooth elastic yarn made to fit without a wrinkle. They give a broad open expanse at the back, with squared or draw-string neckline in front and very narrow shoulder straps. In contrast to these, beach suits are cut on easier lines, shorts and culottes have braastere tops and are in printed linen or cotton in strong toning or contrasting colours.

Summer Weather Tests For Complexions

To keep the attractive smooth velvetiness of your skin as it should be, if you are "tanning" (or if you are avoiding the latter), there are a variety of simple treatments.

If you have dry skin, which might get rough with sun and warmth just as it does in cold winds; try having your cleansing cream just a little richer.

A good idea is to substitute sweet almond oil for your cleansing cream, say, three times a week.
Alternatively you can mix a little almond oil or a little turtle oil with your cleansing cream; this will add to its potency and activity on your skin.

The regular use of a skinfood, of course, is very necessary. It should be left on for half an hour or twenty minutes. Both cleansing and nourishing creams should be followed by a skin tonic, or an astringent—the latter, of course, for normal or oily skins. This should also be patted in, and allowed to dry off.

Cleansing cream and skin tonic mixed is excellent for the skin, as it is cooling and stimulating.

AN OLD-FASHIONED WAY

One of the best summer treatments is the old-fashioned Epsom salt treatment.
Dry, sensitive skinned people should only use it once a week—
then it will be beneficial, and immediately afterwards they should bat in some skinfood, which should be allowed to nourish for ten minutes before being removed.

For a non-sensitive complexion, this can be used quite often; infact, the daily use of it almost makes an oily skin perfectly smooth and matt.

Have two bowls ready—one filled with boiling water, the other with cold water, or, if possible, cracked ice. Dissolve in each of them two ounces of ordinary medicinal Epsom salt.

Apply compressed of the hot salt solution to the skin for as long as it remains hot, then do the same with the cold solution. This tonic invigorates the skin, stimulating it if you feel your skin relaxed, overfed, or if the pores are unduly enlarged.

ICE PACK

The use of ice as a complexion treatment has often been questioned. Some of the best beauticians consider it invaluable for an oily or a heavy skin.

If your skin is fine and sensitive you should not use it, as it might break the small, tiny veins, and they take some time to heal. Those who use it (and it is excellent at this time of year) should wrap it in a piece of butter muslin and draw it over the face and neck in an upward direction.

The skin is greatly improved in summer by the use of oatmeal.
Make a collection of small butter muslin bags, fill them with fine oatmeal, and just the tiniest pinch of powdered borax, and use them for washing.

This is a beauty hint worth knowing as these oatmeal bags keep the skin beauty owing to the softening effect of the oatmeal (and it won't disturb your tan if you have a real tan).

After bathing, walking, or a day in the glaring sun an ordinary milk wash is splendid for the skin;
it is so healing, nourishing and stimulating. Just bathe the skin with ordinary fresh milk, allow it to dry, then bathe with warm (not hot) water.

With regard to make-up, for most skins it is advisable to have a foundation cream which has not too much glycerine in it, as glycerine, especially to the sensitive skin, can be irritating and drying.

ABOUT MAKE-UP

One of the most suitable and best foundation creams is one which is also a good nourishing cream. This soothes, protects and feeds dry, sensitive skin excellently.
One famous beauty specialist sells a very good soothing foundation cream which is used in conjunction with a tonic lotion, or it can also be used with a liquid powder; with both it gives the skin a beautifully matte finish.

For skin which is more or less normal or oily, the choice of a foundation cream is much easier.
Any cream of a recognised make of the "vanishing" cream type is suitable, and the skin benefits from this type of skin.

SUITS OF SATIN

THEY ARE STILL THE FASHION

Satin suits for the summer are still fashion news.

Some of the smartest are made from crepe satin plainly tailored.
Suits made from black crepe satin look well worn with plain blouses of white sheer linen, of spotted lawn or crisp organdie, many of which can be bought for very moderate figures in the summer sales.

Sometimes, a suit is made from different materials. The skirt is plain black crepe satin, the coat of flowered satin. The waistcoat blouse made from white lawn is finished with stiffened petal-shaped ends.

The wearing of short coloured coats is not restricted to suits.
Smart little afternoon frocks are made to match. This applies to dressy evening frocks, and to smart made from substantial materials.

ROYAL COMMISSION

Personnel Announced

WHY NO MARTIAL
LAW

London, July 29.

The membership of the Palestine
Royal Commission was announced in the House of Commons by the Colonial Secretary. The commission is "to ascertain the underlying causes of the disturbances which broke out in Palestine in the middle of April, to enquire into the matter in which the mandate of Palestine was being implemented in relation to the obligations of the mandatory towards the Arabs and Jews respectively, and to ascertain whether upon the proper consideration of the terms of the mandate either Arabs or Jews had any legitimate grievances on account of the way in which the mandate had been or was being implemented, and if the commission is satisfied that any such grievances were well founded, to make recommendations for their removal and for the prevention of their recurrence."

The Chairman of the Commission is Lord Peel, former Secretary of State for India, member of India Round Table Conference and Chairman of the Burma Round Table Conference. Other members are Sir Horace Rumbold, Vice Chairman, formerly British Ambassador at Berlin, Sir Laurie Hammond who recently presided old Morris, former President of the Industrial Court and Professor Coupland Beit, Professor of Colonial History at Oxford. The Colonial Secretary added that it was not yet possible to state the date

the Commission should begin work in Palestine until order had been restored.

Asked why Martial Law had not yet been enforced in Palestine Mr.
Ormsby-Gore said that Martial Law had not been proclaimed because having regard to the extensive powers conferred on the High Commissioner by the Palestine defence order in Council it had not up to now been thought necessary or desirable to do so.—

AFRICAN POSSESSIONS

No Part For Germany

London, July 29.

In the House of Commons Mr.
Mander questioned the Prime Minister regarding the plan disclosed
by Mr. Pirow, the South African him before the British Government when in London for the European Powers with the African possessions each to give a portion

the Powers in question had been

Mr. Baldwin replied that no such the second part of question did

HALF ANGEL

Gay humour with thrilling mystery and sparkling dialogue with exciting romance in "Half Angel" opened yesterday at the King's Theatre with Frances Dee, Brian Donlevy and droll Charles Butterworth featured at the head of an imposing cast, that Henry Stephenson and Sara Haden.

"Half Angel" raises itself beyond the ordinary in the opening scenes, with Miss Dee on trial for the poison murder of her father. Everybody is convinced of her guilt—with the exception of Brian Donlevy, a dashing reporter, and comical Charles Butterworth, his "stooze."

Donlevy's paper is paying Miss Dee's expenses during the trial, hoping to secure her life story. Unexpectedly, the jury returns a verdict of "not guilty" and Donlevy rushes to her side. Miss Dee is whisked away, however, by Helen Westley, whose hobby is helping those in trouble.

Miss Westley's house contains a weird assortment of ex-criminals. Her husband, Henry Stephenson, strongly resents her work but is unable to dissuade her from it. To add to the complications, three maniacs escape from a "near-by" asylum, among them being Stephenson's half-brother.

Donlevy, still on the trail of Miss Dee's story, follows her to the house. He enters her room through a second-story window and she, panic-stricken, agrees to meet him at the front gate. She returns to the house to find Helen Westley and Stephenson apparently dying—both of poison!

CINDERELLA TALE AT THE ALHAMBRA

"IF YOU COULD ONLY COOK"

Jean Arthur who has been on the screen of the Alhambra Theatre since Sunday in "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town" in which she filled the role of a star reporter is once again the feminine attraction at the Alhambra where she appears in the Columbia film "If You Could Only Cook." This time she is starred opposite the suave Herbert Marshall whose film "The Lady Consents" (Ann Harding) was shown here a couple of weeks ago.

"If You Could Only Cook" is a clever Cinderella tale. Herbert Marshall, a society man, in pursuit of romance seeks employment in a kitchen. He obtains work in the pantry of a gangster's mansion and there finds Jean Arthur, also engaged in household work. As the gangster, Leo Carrillo gives a first class performance as does that deep-voiced Lionel Stander as one of the members of the gang.

Of course, Miss Arthur falls in love with Marshall. On the day appointed for the wedding of Marshall to a society woman, Carrillo has "everything fixed up." The hold up, led by Stander, during the wedding service, is hilarious and provides one of the numerous comedy situations that punctuate the production.

Miss Arthur is as capable as ever and Marshall also is splendid. The supporting cast is competent.

Appearing on the stage at all performances in conjunction with the film are Yola and Paul, the celebrated Continental dance team, who already gained warm praise with their appearances at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden. Yola and Paul entertain with a splendid programme of dancing and both individual and duo items are executed with remarkable skill and grace—"Redneck."

The police immediately arrest her and with her past record there appears little chance for Miss Dee to prove her innocence.

Donlevy still believes in her, however, and he continues investigating the crime. He uncovers a series of strange clues and, convinced of a suspect's guilt, traps him with a thrilling and exciting ruse.

It is almost impossible to describe the hilarious comedy that is interwoven with the mystery, romance and suspense. Donlevy is refreshingly gay as the irrepressible reporter while Charles Butterworth has never been funnier than in his role of Donlevy's middle-headed, butter-fingered "stooze."

A scene from "The Singing Kid," a Warner Bros. picture, coming to the Queen's Theatre to-morrow. The cast includes Al Jolson, Sybil Jason, Edward Everett Horton, The Yacht Club Boys, Cab Calloway and his famous band.

SHIP CAFE

High spirited and gay, with a refreshing lift and lift, "Ship Cafe" which is showing at the Star Theatre to-day, emerges as a merry concoction of fun, brightly entertaining in its alternating mirthful and musical moments.

Carl Brisson rises to new heights in this reviewer's estimation, in a new type of role that gives him ample scope to express his versatile talents in every direction, as a singer, dancer, fighter, light comedian and dramatic actor.

Arlene Judge, as cute a trick as ever graced a screen, appears to advantage as a hard-boiled, wise-cracking, warmhearted cabaret dancer, tossing her role off with an air of grace and ease, proving indubitably that she is highly capable of doing something more than dumb-bell, baby-face co-ed portrayals.

"Ship Cafe" serves also to introduce to film fans the virile voiced Eddie Davis, one of Broadway's most colourful figures and an ace entertainer in his own meter. His spontaneous enthusiasm, his obvious sincerity carries him to the front ranks as singer-comedian.

Mady Christians as the wealthy, attractive countess who takes it upon herself to sponsor Brisson's singing career by making him her g-g-o, leaving nothing to be desired.

Centering around the amusing adventures of Brisson as a singing ship stoker, the picture opens aboard a passenger vessel. Brisson's readiness to fight lands him in jail upon his arrival in America. There he meets Frawley who offers him a job as bouncer in his waterfront cafe upon his release. He accepts, and falls in love with Miss Judge, the club's dancer. Davis, the restaurant's entertainer falls ill, and Brisson takes his place, becoming an overnight singing sensation. A champ boxer, with a group of society friends visits the place, and Brisson knocks him out in an argument, thus making the spot a successful society rendezvous. Miss Christians on the pretext of a good job in a swanky night club, makes him her gigolo. Brisson, finally relents, renounces her and returns to Miss Judge.

The film's hit tunes include "Fatal Fascination," and "Change Your Mind," written by Lew Gensler, Harlan Thompson and Ray Noble.

NAVAL CONSTRUCTION PROGRAMME

TWO SHIP TO BE BUILT
IMMEDIATELY

London, July 29.

In the House of Commons to-day the First Lord of the Admiralty announced that it had been decided to give orders for two new battleships of the 1936 programme to Vickers, Armstrong at Walker-on-Tyne and Cammell Laird at Birkenhead. Arrangements for the laying down of these ships were being made in full accordance with the declared policy of the Government to press on with the naval replacement and the new construction programme with all possible speed. It was the intention that the keels should be laid at the earliest moment permitted by the Washington Naval Treaty, namely in January 1937. Sir Samuel Hoare added that with regard to the enquiry made by the Minister for the Coordination of Defence into the vulnerability of capital ships he had received an advance copy of the draft report from which it appeared the designs of battleships would not be affected by the recommendations.

Prosecuted by his own mother for larceny, Lai Yat Wo, 17, unemployed, was charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday with the larceny of a jade ring, a gold ring, a watch, $30, a total value of $70, from his mother, Lo Fung Hing, at No. 31, Wing Hing Street on July 17.

Acting Sub-Inspector Madge-wick stated that on July 12 the complainant went out for a walk and when she returned she found that the son had helped himself to the jewellery and money. Defendant then went to Macao and returned yesterday after spending all the money.

A little while ago the defendant cleared the house of all the blankets and sold them. On another occasion he took a wall clock. The mother would like to send him to the Industrial School to cure him of his drug habit but he was too old. He had been mixing with bad company and when at school he had often played truant and spent the school fees. Things were becoming too bad and the mother was now pressing the case.

The gold ring had been sold and melted down. The watch had been pawned for $4 and the jade ring sold to an opium divan keeper for $7. The total value of the articles not recovered was $51.

Defendant was ordered to repay $51 or serve six weeks, and on the other charges he was sentenced to a total of 6 months.

The defendant was followed on board and upon seeing the Inspector the defendant went down to the third class deck. He was accosted there and asked for his ticket. He had no ticket but offered 10 cents in payment.

ONE OUT OF THREE CHARGES PROVED

Local Solicitor Is Suspended

"RECKLESS DISREGARDS FOR THE ETHICS OF HIS PROFESSION"

Judgment was delivered yesterday by the Full Court comprising the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor and the Acting Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden in the case against a local solicitor on charges brought by the Incorporated Law Society of Hong Kong, asking that his name be struck off the rolls of the Court for "disgraceful and dishonourable conduct."

On the three charges brought forward only one was proved, and the solicitor in question, Mr. Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ was suspended from practising as a solicitor for 12 months.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon K.C., instructed by Mr. D. E. Strellett, Secretary of the Incorporated Law Society appeared for the applicant, while Mr. Leo D'Almada Castro, Jnr., instructed by Mr. F. M. Hodgson appeared for the respondent.

THE JUDGMENT

It, delivering judgment the Chief Justice said:—

In these proceedings the Incorporated Law Society of Hong Kong seeks an order that the name of the respondent, Mr. Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ, a Solicitor approved, admitted and enrolled as a Solicitor of this Court, be removed and struck off the Rolls of this Court on the following grounds:—

(a) That the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ has been guilty of an offence against the provisions of Section 32 of the Solicitors Act 1843, which section was extended to this Colony by Section 51 of the Legal Practitioners Ordinance 1871, in that he between the fifth day of February 1925 and March 1928, whilst carrying on business as a Solicitor in this Colony under the name of Lee and Russ, and between April 1928 and the end of March 1929, whilst carrying on business as a Solicitor in this Colony under the name of Russ & Co., wilfully and knowingly permitted or suffered such firm names to be made use of in certain actions or suits instituted in the Supreme Court of Hong Kong and in matters in bankruptcy upon the account or for the profit of persons not duly qualified to act as an attorney or attorneys or solicitor or solicitors, knowing such person or persons not to be qualified as aforesaid.

"DISGRACEFUL AND DISHONOURABLE"

(b) That the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ has been guilty of disgraceful and dishonourable conduct as a Solicitor, in that he being a Solicitor was a party to and executed the following written agreements with persons not duly qualified to act as attorneys or Solicitors, namely:—

(1) Agreement dated the fifth day of February 1925 made between the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ of the one part, and Li Wing Chi and Fung Kit Ling of the other part, by which agreement the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ agreed in consideration of the sum of $30,000, paid to him by the said Li Wing Chi and Fung Kit Ling, to share the profits of his business of a solicitor carried on by him in this Colony under the name of Lee and Russ with the said Li Wing Chi and Fung Kit Ling, and to carry on business and the practice of a solicitor for a period of 15 years for the common interest of all parties to the said agreement, and that the said agreement in effect is a partnership agreement between the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ and persons not qualified to act as attorneys or solicitors; alternatively, that the said agreement gives control of the business and practice of the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ and its management to persons not duly qualified as therein mentioned or their successors.

(2) Two agreements dated respectively the 13th and 15th days of May 1926 made between the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ of the one part, and Fung Kit Ling of the other part, by which agreements and the joint effect thereof the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ binds himself, so long as he shall practice as a solicitor in Hong Kong, to retain the services of the said Fung Kit Ling and gives the said Fung Kit Ling authority to agree the amount of costs payable in respect of all work introduced by the said Fung Kit Ling.

(3) An agreement made in or about the month of August 1926 between the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ of the one part and certain persons not duly qualified to act as attorneys or solicitors, namely Wong Kien Kee, Lo Kwok Min and Dai Sau Wan of the other part, in which agreement the terms and conditions contained in the said agreement of the fifth day of February 1925, were in effect applied to and for the benefit of the said Wong Kien Kee, Lo Kwok Min and Dai Sau Wan in place of the said Li Wing Chi and Fung Kit Ling.

UNQUALIFIED PERSONS

(c) That the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ has been guilty of disgraceful and dishonourable conduct as a Solicitor, in that he wrote two several letters dated respectively the 24th and 30th days of May 1935 at Paignton, England, addressed and despatched to one K. K. Wong in this Colony, in that the said letters contain an offer by the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ to enter into an association to carry on the practice of a Solicitor with a person not duly qualified to act as an attorney or solicitor.

The respondent was admitted a Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Judicature in England in 1909 and was duly enrolled a Solicitor and Proctor of this Court on March 28, 1912.

In 1921 he made a second visit to the Colony and practised under the firm name of Lee and Russ with Mr. Lee Hon Chee, a Solicitor of this Court. In 1925 Mr. Lee Hon Chee retired from the partnership, and it became necessary for the respondent, in order to buy him out, to raise the sum of $30,000. The respondent therefore approached Li Wing Chi and Fung Kit Ling, two unqualified persons then employed as interpreters in the firm of Lee and Russ, and obtained from them the sum of $30,000 on terms and conditions which are embodied in an agreement dated the fifth day of February, 1925.

The case for the Law Society, so far as the first and second charges are concerned, depends on the construction which this Court places on that agreement, it being contended on behalf of the Law Society that it is clearly a partnership agreement between the respondent solicitor and unqualified persons, while the respondent maintains that it is no more than a loan agreement.

These proceedings are in their essence disciplinary and penal and it is therefore essential that we be satisfied that the agreement in question, together with the consequential agreements of the 13th and 15th May, 1926 and August 1926, as regards which no different considerations arise, is a partnership agreement and nothing but a partnership agreement.

LOAN NECESSARY

In the circumstances in which the respondent was placed on Mr. Lee Hon Chee's retirement it was necessary for him to raise a considerable sum of money by way of loan, and he had no security to offer except his ability as a solicitor. It was to the success of the practice and to that alone that the return of their capital and a reasonable rate of interest. They cannot, in such circumstances, be blamed for imposing on the respondent borrower such stringent safeguards as they could induce him to accept.

Viewed in the light of these facts and construing the relevant agree-

CORRESPONDENCE

A DISCLAIMER

["To the Editor, the "Hong Kong Daily Press"]

Sir.—As some confusion exists on the point, we shall be obliged if you will allow us to explain that the Solicitor who was to-day suspended from practice has no connection with the firm.

Yours faithfully,
RUSS & CO.
Hong Kong, July 30, 1936.

ment as a whole we are not satisfied that its provisions are in any way inconsistent with the terms which might properly be imported into a loan agreement, where the security for the considerable sum loaned is so personal in its nature, having come to that conclusion as to the proper construction of the agreement it is unnecessary for us to consider and determine any of the several points made to us regarding the true meaning and intention of Section 32 of the Solicitors Act of 1843 and the mischief aimed at by that section. We have found that the relations between the respondent and the unqualified persons Li Wing Chi and Fung Kit Ling and, subsequent to August, 1926, Wong Kien Kee, Lo Kwok Min and Dai Sau Wan, were those of debtor and creditor, and the first and second of the charges brought against the respondent therefore fail.

THE FACTS

I turn now to a consideration of the facts on which the third charge is based. The respondent left the Colony in 1929 and resumed the practice of his profession in England. In May, 1935, he received a cablegram reading: "Can you return practice in Hong Kong? Wire expenses required." This cablegram was from one Wong Lo, and the respondent has stated that he assumed that it was sent by one K. K. Wong. Respondent replied "Wong Lo. Expenses $350," and received a reply "Cabling expenses 14 days. Book earliest steamer." It was after the passing of these cable communications that the respondent wrote the two letters, dated 24th and 30th May, 1935, respectively, on which the third charge is based, and which were in the following terms:—

Exhibit F.1

Stanley Richards & Co., Waycotts' Corner, Paignton, May 24, 1935.

Dear Mr. K. K. Wong,
I duly received your cable and wired to-day "Expenses $350."

I should be prepared to return to Hong Kong on some such terms as these:

12 years contract. Guaranteed $1,200 a month and 30 per cent. of net profits, payable yearly. First $1,200 to be paid on arrival in Colony. 7 months leave on full pay and 1st class passage 4th, 8th and 11th years, April to October, $20,000 life policy to be taken out on arrival in trust for wife and paid her on death.

I am to remain teetotal during the whole of my period in Hong Kong. I have done this now for over five years and would not be otherwise.

If you think this worth considering, I shall have to give at least three months' notice here and will do so the moment I am notified my expenses have been cabled and sail on the first practicable date.

You will of course arrange for offices, and a good staff clerks, &c., to be available on my arrival.

I can save 14 days on the voyage by sailing via Canada, but this would cost another $25. I should rather relish an opportunity of returning and making good and showing what I really could do, so I have quite made up my mind to return, if you really want me to do so.

If you get this towards the end of June and the fares are cabled at once, I could give my notice to expire at the end of September and sail early in October and if I went via Canada arrive at the end of October.

With kind regards to all—
Yours sincerely,
(Signed) C. A. S. Russ.

ROBBERY RECALLED

Work Of Servants WOMAN ON TRIAL

A case of unusual features was heard at the Central Court yesterday before Mr. W. Schofield concerning a robbery which occurred at the residence of Mr. and the Misses Allen, No. 140A, Kennedy Road on July 4.

Fung Yin Lam, 28, was charged with the larceny of $415, a $1 note, 2 pieces of jewellery and five unset precious stones. Fung Yau, the amah of the house was charged with aiding and abetting. The only other figure actually in touch with the robbery was that of Leung Hon, the cook-boy. Thus until one of the defendants was convicted he or she could not be used to give evidence against the other.

Inspector A. E. Carey outlining the case said that on July 4 about 9.30 a.m. the defendant went to the house and rang the bell and asked for the cook. The amah answered the door bell. The cook, Leung Hon, came to the door and the defendant then told him that he (defendant) was from Mr. Allen's office and Mr. Allen wanted his swimming clothes taken down to the office.

SEARCH REVEALED LOSS

The cook took the basket down to Mr. Allen, who on receiving the things thought that his sisters might have wished for the clothes, but a telephone call to his sister showed this was not the case. Mr. Allen then went back to the house. Miss E. Allen also went back to the house and searching the drawers found that the sum of $415 had been stolen together with a quantity of jewellery. The Police were sent for. The amah was found in the hall crying. She had apparently been beaten. The amah said that she did not know who had committed the robbery but later that night gave the names of two men. The defendant and an ex-boy named Ah Shui.

On July 11, as a result of information, Inspector Carey and another detective went to the Sai On Wharf where the defendant was arrested. The defendant said: "It is not my business, if you arrest Ah Shui and Fung Yau, the amah, you will find out about it." In answer to the charge Fung Yin Lam said, "Ah Shui asked me to go. He gave me $15 and a $1 note. He told me to run away."

At an identification parade the male defendant was he had been employed at Mr. Allen's house since July 1. He identified the male defendant as the man who came to the house and gave him the false message from his master.

SUCH A PERSON EXISTS

Miss E. Allen in the witness box stated that there has been an ex-cook boy named Ah Shui. She then gave a description of the articles stolen but could not give their value.

Defendant here stated that the things had been stolen by the ex-boy. When asked this Miss Allen said that it must have been because the room was not at all disturbed and seemed to show the work of someone who was familiar with the room.

Choy Yee, L.S.A. 203 gave evidence of the arrest. This evidence concluded the case for the prosecution.

Upon his admission of his statement which he had made to the Police, the defendant was then convicted as an accessory before the fact.

Defendant (male) was fined a $100 or two months and two months in addition.

The case against Fung Yau was then proceeded with, she being charged with aiding and abetting.

Leung Hon, the cook boy in his evidence said that before he left the house with the basket he gave the amah instructions to watch the other defendant as he was unknown.

Mr. Allen, stated that when he returned to the house and questioned the amah she was too hysterical to answer.

The interpreted of the No. 2 Station stated that when the defendant was questioned through him by Inspector Carey she denied knowledge of the identity of the man who attacked her. She added that while she was being struck she thought that she heard footsteps running up the stairs.

ASKED TO DO IT

The first accused who had been convicted, then went into the box and said he had met the defend-

HOSPITAL THEFTS

THIEF CAUGHT ON INFORMATION

Kwan Shui, 22, unemployed, was charged on three counts of (a) theft of $75 on May 11, (b) the theft of a numbering stamp machine, and (c) the theft of $15 on June 28, before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday and was sentenced to a total of 6 months.

The articles were stolen from the Hong Kong Sanatorium, and the complainant was Ho Kung, accountant.

Det. Sergt. Dowman stated that the defendant had been employed as an office collee at the Hospital. On May 11 the first sum of money was missing and a report being made, the defendant absconded. On June 22, the stamping machine was stolen from a locked drawer, which had been opened by a duplicate key. On July 27 the defendant was seen crouching behind the Hospital wall. He was chased but escaped. On July 28 he was arrested in Shaohulpoo on information, and admitted to the thefts. The machine was pawned for $3.50.

CRUELTY TO A SPARROW

CHINESE FINED

Another case of wanton cruelty, the result of which was that the victim, a baby sparrow, was on the point of dying, was heard at the Central Court yesterday before Mr. C. B. Burgess. The defendant was Ho Fuk Iu, 36, a newspaper deliverer. He was fined $25 or two weeks.

Sub-Inspector Kirby stated that at 8.50 on Wednesday, Sergeant Sullivan was on patrol on Pokfulam Road and saw the defendant with the bird attached to a piece of string, allowing it to fly away and then drawing it back again. As a result of his cruelty the bird was on the point of death.

Defendant said that he had picked the bird up on Babbington Path with the string already tied around its leg.

Remarking that he did not believe the story for birds do not fly around with string attached to their legs, His Worship sentenced him as stated above.

BRITISH SHIPBUILDERS ON TOP

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, July 15.

Britain's recovery in shipbuilding and a plea for Government assistance in putting South Wales back on the industrial map were features of reports yesterday.

Shipbuilders in Great Britain and Ireland, with 848,732 tons under construction, of 43.5 per cent. of the tonnage of the world, excluding Russia, at the end of June had more work in hand than the total of the four leading countries abroad.

This figure, given in Lloyd's Register Shipbuilding Returns for the quarter ended June 30, exceeded by 288,411 tons, or nearly fifty per cent., the tonnage being built at the end of June, 1935.

Mr. Edmund Hann, chairman of the Powell Duffryn Associated Collieries, Ltd., at the annual meeting of the company in London yesterday said:

"The disastrous state of affairs in the South Wales coal industry has been in existence too long and I feel we are entitled to look to the Government for practical measures of assistance."

"The problem has become a national one. South Wales requires and should have the installation of new industries."

SHIPBUILDING ACTIVITY

Statistics issued recently by Lloyd's Register of Shipping reflect a steady recovery in the shipbuilding industry of the world. At first glance it would appear that British shipbuilding relative to activity in foreign yards has suffered a set-back during the quarter, the increase in work under construction being only some 6000 tons compared with nearly 100,000 tons in the previous quarter. But when the circumstances are examined it is seen that there has been no falling off in activity; indeed the figures of merchant work on hand in British yards is the highest quarterly total recorded since December, 1930. To appreciate the continuity of new work for the industry, it is necessary to note the large amount of tonnage which has been completed in the past three months. The new shipping which has gone into commission since the beginning of April includes the 80,000-ton Queen Mary, and the total tonnage delivered by British shipbuilders in that time is in the region of 300,000, or nearly equal to the entire tonnage now under construction in Germany.

where the shipyards are operating almost to capacity. In view of the fact that such a large amount of work has left the builders' hands since the last quarterly returns, it is remarkable that the present figures should still be in excess, however slight, of the total for the end of March. In most of the leading foreign countries there has been an increase in shipyard work, but in spite of the large output from this country in the period under review the British figure for work on hand still exceeds the aggregate tonnage now under construction in Germany, Japan, Holland, and Sweden.

Figures relating to the work of the Clyde yards show a decrease compared with the past quarter on account of the completion of the Queen Mary, but the merchant ships on the stocks and fitting-out basins of the shipyards of this river total over 300,000 tons, and to that will soon be added a considerable tonnage recently ordered, which before the end of the year the Queen Mary's sister ship may possibly be included in the statistics. In the course of the past 12 months the tonnage on hand in Clyde yards has increased by well over 30 per cent., and in the case of the yards in Port Glasgow and Greenock over 100 per cent. It is also worth noting that employment in the shipyards is much more widespread to-day than it was a year ago. At the end of June, 1935, shipyards in the upper reaches of the Clyde had on hand 29 merchant ships (including the Queen Mary), totalling 166,000 tons, while to-day the number of vessels is 47, with practically no change in tonnage, the total for Glasgow area being 167,000 tons.

This quarter's returns contain only one disquieting aspect concerning British shipyard work—shipbuilding exports. The mercantile work in British shipyards for registration abroad amounts to merely 64,000 tons, or 7.6 per cent. of the tonnage now being built in this country; but in Germany 179,000 tons (nearly 50 per cent. of the total) are for other than German owners, while approximately 30 per cent. of the

LAMMA ISLAND ROBBERY

Fisherman's Hut Raided

Chan Hi, aged 60, a fisherman, residing at an unnumbered hut on the sea shore off Pak Kok Village, Lamma Island, was the victim of an armed robbery on July 28, at about 11.30 p.m.

He had gone to bed in his hut at about 10 p.m., and with him was Chan Kang Tak, a foki and a relation.

At about 11.30 he was awakened by a strange voice, demanding in the Puntli dialect, to "Get up!" When he was thoroughly awakened he saw three men beside him, and another at the door with a flashlight in his hand. One of the men was armed with a revolver, and two with choppers. The one with the revolver pushed him on the bed which was occupied by Chan, who, by this time, had also been awakened. One of the men also wore an improvised mask, made out of a handkerchief.

The victims had their hands tied behind them with a rope, and their persons were searched, as well as the hut.

After the robbers had been gone for about fifteen minutes Chan Hi managed to untie himself, and rushed outdoors to see a small boat sailing away towards Green Island.

He made no report of the robbery until he was admonished to do so by a Government watchman at Yung Shu Wan, Lamma Island.

The robbers made away with $10 contained in a canvas girdle, one metal watch, four gallons of Asiatic Petroleum Company kerosene, 40 cabbages of salt fish, 175 cabbages of salt, 10 chickens, two empty bamboo baskets and two wooden buckets. The total value of the stolen articles amounted to $28.85.

NEW BATTLESHIP PROGRAMME

Washington, July 29. Simultaneously with the announcement of Sir Samuel Hoare in London that Britain would build two new battleships next year, Admiral William Standley, Acting Secretary of the Navy, informed a press conference that he had not the slightest doubt that the United States would begin the construction of two battleships next year.

The actual decision would depend upon evidence that Great Britain or some other power had begun construction.

work of Swedish and Danish yards is for other nationals. There is, however, an improvement in that respect in warship construction, of which no account is taken by Lloyd's Register. At the moment warship construction is a big factor in world shipbuilding, and any account of shipyard work is necessarily incomplete if naval tonnage is not included. It is, of course, no easy matter to get the necessary particulars concerning the Government work of the various shipyards of the world, but if some reference to warship work could be incorporated in these quarterly reports issued by Lloyd's Register, which is essentially international in scope, the returns would be of still greater value and interest to shipbuilders at home and abroad.

LADY YULE'S YACHT CHARTERED

King To Cruise Along Dalmatian Coast

SHORT VISITS ASHORE ON VOYAGE

London, July 30. King Edward, who on Monday cancelled his Riviera holiday, will go for a cruise instead. He has accepted from Lady Yule, widow of the late Sir David Yule, an offer of her steam yacht Nahlin for this purpose.

His Majesty is expected to leave in about ten days and to be away for three or four weeks.

This cruise, it is understood, will be along the Dalmatian coast and in parts of Eastern Mediterranean.

The King and his party will travel overland to Dalmatia, probably making part of the journey by air. He will there embark on the yacht Nahlin which is expected to leave Southampton in the next day or two for Dalmatia.

One of the reasons why the King has chartered the Nahlin is that the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert would be too large to enter conveniently small bays along the Dalmatian coast.

It is expected that during his voyage the King will make short visits ashore at various places.

In accordance with the usual custom, two British destroyers will accompany the yacht on her cruise.

British Wireless.

MINIATURE LINER

London, July 30. It is officially stated that the King has chartered Lady Yule's yacht Nahlin for a holiday cruise in the Mediterranean lasting about ten days. The Nahlin, which is at present in South England waters, is one of the most luxurious yachts afloat built by the builders of the R.M.S. Queen Mary in 1930 at a cost to Lady Yule, millionaire widow of Sir David Yule, of £278,000.

The yacht is an ocean liner in miniature, equipped with a dozen bathrooms, gymnasium, dining, drawing and smoke rooms and a special dance floor.

KOWLOON C.C. FAREWELL

Mr. L. J. Blackburn's Departure

PARTING GIFT

A small throng gathered at the Kowloon Cricket Club at 7.45 p.m. yesterday to bid adieu to one of their most popular members who is leaving the Colony on Saturday, on board the P. and O. liner Mirzapore.

The honouree guest was Mr. L. J. Blackburn, who was presented with a wallet, with a small cheque in it, to speed him well on his voyage.

Mr. Ezra Abraham, who was the spokesman, said that Mr. Blackburn was a good friend, and a valued member of the Kowloon Cricket Club. He first arrived in the Colony in 1905, but he was unable to find any records of the date of Mr. Blackburn's joining the Club. At that time, anyone who bought a round of drinks automatically became a member. (Laughter).

Mr. Blackburn was on the General Committee from 1911 until 1923, and was the Secretary from 1917 to 1920.

In the year 1925, he was made a life-member, which was an honoured distinction most fittingly bestowed upon him.

Mr. Blackburn's sports activities included cricket, tennis and lawn bowls, over a period of years beginning from 1908 until 1924.

He was the first batsman of the second eleven in 1908, 1912, and 1922. He won several doubles handicap matches, and in lawn bowling his name could be found in the mid-averages.

Mr. Abraham reiterated the fact that they were all sorry to lose such a good friend in Mr. Blackburn, and hoped that the wide experience he had gained of the Colony's conditions would enable him to send some business out this way. (Laughter).

He then presented the gift on behalf of the members of the Club, after which all joined in singing "For he's a jolly good fellow," concluding with three rousing cheers, and a tiger.

In replying to the token of friendship, Mr. Blackburn said that he was sorry, indeed, to leave

"OLD COMRADES AND FRIENDS"

KING'S GREETING TO PILGRIMS

London, July 30.

In the history of Buckingham Palace there was never a reception so informal or perhaps quite so jolly as that of yesterday when many thousands of Canadian pilgrims were the King's guests in its gardens. Children romped about the lawns and many of the pilgrims obtaining supplies of tea and cakes from the buffets held an impromptu picnic under the trees.

The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester were acting as host and hostess on behalf of the King, but His Majesty found it possible himself to join the party. He was at once surrounded by his enthusiastic guests with whom he talked freely on all manner of subjects, recognising many he had met on his Canadian visits.

When a heavy rainstorm broke he shared with them the crowded accommodation of the tents and later led the way to the Palace where the pilgrims crowded into the rooms and corridors.

There the King delivered an impromptu and intimate speech addressing his hearers as "Old Comrades and Friends from Canada." When he had finished, eight thousand voices burst into a chorus of "For He is a Jolly Good Fellow," followed by "God Save the King."

BIRTHDAY PLANES FOR GEN. CHIANG

Committee Formed To Organize Purchases

RULES FOR COLLECTING CONTRIBUTIONS

Nanking, July 27. To unify the raising of funds for the purchase of aeroplanes for presentation to the Central Government on the occasion of the 50th birthday anniversary of General Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Executive Yuan, which falls on October 29, a special committee has been organized in Nanking.

Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Finance, General Ho Ying-chin, Minister of War, Dr. Weng Wen-hao, secretary-general of the Executive Yuan, Mr. Wang Hsiao-lai, prominent business leader in Shanghai, and Mr. Chow Tzu-jou, director of the Aviation Commission, have been appointed members of the standing committee, while a larger number of Government officials, university presidents and civic leaders will be invited to serve as directors and supervisors.

The suggestion for the organization of the committee was first advanced by the Aviation Commission. In making the suggestion the commission pointed out that without a centralized control over purchase, the gift planes, which are being bought by various civic bodies without proper guidance, may not be fit for use for Government service.

REGULATIONS PROMULGATED. Two sets of regulations governing the constitution of the committee and the collection of gift plane contributions respectively have been promulgated.

According to the first set of regulations, the committee shall be composed of an unlimited number of members. While the three representatives of the Aviation Commission, the National Civil Aviation Association and the National Aviation Reconstruction Commission shall be members ex-officio, other high officials of the Central, provincial and municipal governments will be appointed members as circumstances warrant.

Expenses of the committee, it is stipulated, shall not be appropriated from the contribution fund but defrayed by the Aviation Commission, the National Civil Aviation Association and the National Aviation Reconstruction Commission.

According to the second set of regulations, the committee shall be the sole organ for the custody of contributions for the purchase of gift planes. Contributions from the people in various provinces and municipalities shall be collected by the National Civil Aviation Association for transmission to the committee. Contributions from public functionaries shall be collected by the National Aviation Reconstruction Commission for transmission to the committee.

$100,000 PER MACHINE. Contributions from military organs shall be collected by the Ministry of War for transmission to the committee. Contributions from sources other than those mentioned above may be sent to the three Government banks, namely, the Central Bank of China, the Bank of China and the Bank of Communications for transmission to the committee.

With every $100,000 received from a single source the committee will purchase one plane, the name of which may be decided by the contributors themselves. Contributions less than that amount will be amalgamated with money pledged by other sources.

Contributions for the establishment of an aircraft works should be so mentioned by the contributors.

The date for receiving contributions has been fixed from June 1 to September 20.—Central News.

AN INOFPORTUNE MOMENT

London, July 29. Replying to a Commons question on the re-fortification of Heligoland, Mr. Anthony Eden said "the action of the German Government in this matter is unilateral and if the matter were to be dealt with separately His Majesty's Government would require to formulate most express reserves with regard to that action. The House will however, be aware, from what I said in the course of last Monday's debate that negotiations have been set on foot which it is hoped may lead to fresh effort at European settlement, in which Germany would play her full part. I hope therefore my Honourable friend will agree with His Majesty's Government in feeling that individual matters of this kind, though they cannot pass unobserved, should not be raised at a moment and in a manner which might react unfavourably on the negotiations to which I have referred and thus prejudice a general settlement which we all hope may be reached."

PROCESS OF ENCOMPASSING SPANISH CAPITAL

Communication Severed With Towns

REBELS CLAIM CAPTURE OF FRONTIER TOWN Marxist Civil Governor Arrested

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Lisbon, July 30.

The process of encompassing Madrid is now completed, according to an announcement of General Mola, who adds that all communication between the capital and those towns still in the hands of the Government has been cut.

A broadcast message from Seville affirms that the frontier town of Ayamonte, where severe fighting during the last two days has been going on, has now been captured by the insurgents.

It is further asserted that the “People House” in Huelva, where severe fighting went on, has been completely destroyed, and that the Marxist Civil Governor who had taken to flight has been arrested near the Portuguese frontier.—Transocean News Service.

ADVANCE ON SARAGOSSA

Perpignan, July 30.

Government troops are advancing slowly in four columns on the strongly fortified Saragossa, according to the latest reports received here.

One southern column coming from Alcaniz, reached Hija, about 28 kilometres from Saragossa, while a second column under Perez Farras, occupied the important junction of Bujaraloz.

Hitherto, only the southern group, which is considerably nearer Saragossa than the northern column has had encounter with insurgents.

A battle took place at Caspe where the government troops lost 70 dead and about 500 wounded. In Barcelona it is feared that Saragossa will not be captured without a severe struggle, since the insurgents are holding the town with a number of about 8,000 and are well-armed.—Transocean News Service.

GOVERNMENT CLAIMS

Madrid, July 29.

The general situation in the Civil War continued to develop favourably for the Government forces according to official Government statements. The definite reoccupation of San Sebastian is regarded as most important success for the loyal troops. The Government admits that the City of Oviedo is still in the hands of the rebels. The Government expects a surrender of the rebels at Granada and Cordoba soon.

The seriousness of the situation is indicated by the fact that the General-Director of the Spanish Police force has been authorised by the Minister of Interior to have every one executed on the spot that is found stealing, no matter to what party connection he belongs.—Transocean News Service.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

Perpignan, July 29.

Although the position of the Government troops and the insurgents on the main front remains practically unchanged, the latest reports received here on Thursday appear to indicate that the situation is slightly improving in favour of the Government forces. The Government, it is said, is trying to drive the insurgent troops to the south west towards the Portuguese frontier, and order the advance in the direction of Navarre.—Transocean News Service.

REBEL SUCCESSES

Lisbon, July 29.

The Spanish rebels are reported to have made considerable headway in the South, capturing the towns of Huelva and Ayamonte, near the Portuguese border. Twelve Communist leaders were shot as soon as the rebel forces occupied the towns.

It is stated that the populations of Huelva and Ayamonte welcomed the entry of the rebel troops with enthusiasm. Red flags were torn down and factory hooters were sounded and church bells pealed. All Portuguese trade with Valencia has been suspended.—Reuter.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN PROGRESS

Fate Of Big Cities In The Balance

London, July 30.

The conflict in Spain continues undiminished in intensity and ferocity.

The only conclusion to be drawn from the latest news is that neither side can claim the upper hand. It is clear that while the Government is holding its own in some provinces, the insurgents control others.

The fate of Madrid, Barcelona, and several other big towns still hangs in the balance.

Both sides are taking measures against each other on the Guadarrama mountain front, thirty miles from Madrid, the ridge of which Government troops are closely holding.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

AIR INVASION PLANNED

He emphasised that his real aim was to help Spain by stamping out Communism. Surely, he remarked, Britain, Germany and Italy must sympathise with his cause.

General Franco appeared confident. He said the ability of the Spanish Government to hold out depended on the amount of help that might be given it from Moscow and the Popular Front Government of France.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

Perpignan, July 30.

The French Consul in Barcelona, who sends radio messages to his compatriots in Spain twice daily, strongly advised in a message on Wednesday that all French nationals leave Catalonia without delay.

After giving orders as to where and when they should assemble, the Consul gives notice that any French national who does not follow the advice thus tendered would remain behind at his own risk, and that the French Government could not assume any responsibility for his safety.

This is indicated that early repetition of grave disorders in Catalonia is feared.—Transocean News Service.

Italian Attitude In Spanish Civil War

THREAT TO JOIN NATIONALISTS

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Paris, July 30.

Although Italy has hitherto adopted an attitude of strictest neutrality towards the happenings in Spain, Italian authoritative sources, according to the Rome correspondent of “Le Jour,” give clearly to understand that this attitude could at any moment be altered if any other powers actively intervened in Spanish affairs.

The correspondent says this means that Italy would not hesitate to come to the assistance of the Spanish nationalist movement if the other powers aided the Spanish Government.

The correspondent further states that a certain measure of uneasiness is making itself felt in Rome where it is feared that international complications might arise out of the Spanish civil war.—Transocean News Service.

MINISTERS TAKE A HOLIDAY

Premier Leaves For Chequers

London, July 30.

The Prime Minister and Mrs. Baldwin this morning left Downing Street for Chequers where they will spend the first part of their holiday instead of at Aix les Bains as they originally intended.

Later this week the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden hopes to take a fortnight's holiday in Yorkshire during which period Lord Halifax will deputise for him at the Foreign Office.

Sir Robert Vansittart, Permanent Under-Secretary, is using part of his leave to pay a short unofficial visit to Germany where he will witness the Olympic Games. Some time ago it was arranged that Lady Vansittart would, during the games, deputise as hostess at the Berlin Embassy for her sister, Lady Phipps, who is staying in England for reasons of health.

As Sir Robert finds it convenient to take a short holiday he is leaving for Berlin to-day with his wife and brother-in-law, Sir Eric Phipps, who has been spending leave in Britain. His visit is purely private.—British Wireless.

London, July 29.

From authoritative quarters here it is stated that Sir Robert Vansittart, Permanent Under-Secretary of State in the Foreign Office will in the next few days pay a private visit to Berlin of 9 to 10 days duration.

He will be guest of his brother-in-law, Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador in Berlin, whose sister Vansittart married.—Transocean News Service.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN VIENNA

Trouble At Olympic Torch Reception

GOVERNMENT SUSPENDS AMNESTY

Released Prisoners May Be Rearrested

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Vienna, July 30.

Following a Cabinet meeting that lasted until after midnight, it was announced that as a result of the political demonstrations which took place in various parts of Vienna on Wednesday, during the ceremonies held in connection with the arrival of the Olympic torch, amnesty would not be granted to about 5,000 political prisoners sentenced by special courts.

The demonstrations bore a socialistic character, although the participants shouted Nazi slogans with the object, it is thought, of inciting the Nazi-Socialists to join in.

A large number of Socialist leaflets were distributed, and the police were obliged to take action in some instances.—Transocean News Service.

REARREST WARNING

Vienna, July 30.

The general amnesty for political prisoners which Dr. Schuschnigg granted following the Austro-German agreement has been suspended because of a Nazi demonstration against the Government at the ceremony of receiving the Olympic torch last night.

Since the amnesty was granted 800 Nazis and 400 Socialists have been released, but they have been warned by the Government that they will be rearrested if they take in any political activities.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

RUNNER INJURED

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Vienna, July 30.

The popular world champion figure-skater, Karl Schafer, suffered a painful injury which, fortunately, was not of a serious nature, when bearing the Olympic torch through Vienna on Wednesday. ROUSING WELCOME

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Berlin, July 30.

The main body of the Hungarian Olympic team, consisting of seventy-one sportsmen, arrived at Berlin on Thursday morning, and were accorded an enthusiastic welcome at the station.

Duke Adolf zu Mecklenburg and Commandant Fyestherm of the Olympic village, represented Germany on the welcoming committee, which also included the Hungarian Minister, Stojay, the president of the Hungarian Olympic committee, Kelemen Corneli, and numerous members of the Hungarian Legation.

Berlin, July 30.

The newest addition to the Olympic programme is basketball, although enrolment of the twenty three nations for this sport indicates it is well-known in the world. South America is represented by five teams, North America by three, Asia with five, and Europe with ten.

Basketball is extremely popular in South America: the Argentine, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Paraguay and Uruguay playing each year for the championship, which Uruguay has won during the last three years in succession. A tournament is also held in the Far East between China, Japan and the Philippines. China has achieved the greatest success, but the Japanese are progressing rapidly, and the meeting between them will be a feature of the Berlin tournament.—Transocean News Service.

LAWN BOWLS

Gutierrez In Open Singles Final

ALVES BEATEN

L. A. Gutierrez, of the Club de Recreio who won the title in 1932, entered the final for the second time, when he defeated a club-mate, H. A. Alves in the semi-finals of the lawn bowls Open Singles Championship of the Colony yesterday, at the Kowloon Dock Recreation Club green by 22 shots to 18. The game terminated on the 24th head.

Although the standard of play was never brilliant, it was a dour struggle throughout. It is interesting to note that the eventual winner obtained the lead for the first time at the 19th head where, by means of a two, he led 15 shots to 13.

Alves had a comfortable lead of four shots at the 9th head having scored a three, then a two in rapid succession. Until this period Gutierrez had only scored with three singles and a two. From the 9th to the 18th Alves took his score from 9 shots to 13, while his opponent, who had only five at the 9th, was level at the 18th. From the 15th (when Gutierrez only had ten shots to his credit) he scored steadily on the next six heads, where he registered four singles and a two. This gave him a lead of two shots.

Alves rallied with a three, but the 21st, 22nd and 24th heads saw Gutierrez consolidate his position with a single, two and a four to run out winner by five shots. Alves could only register a single on the 23rd head.

Gutierrez in the latter stages of the game, showed he was the complete master of himself. He bowled with apparent nonchalance, while Alves at the critical stages was prone to send up woods without sufficient strength. He therefore never gave himself a chance.

In the final head with Gutierrez lying three, Alves with his final wood elected to drive. His effort went wide and dropped in the gutter. It was the consensus of opinion that he should have attempted to draw the shot, and therefore save the head, for another effort in the next head. Gutierrez will now meet A. E. Gates of Craigengower C.C. in the finals.

MILLIONS OF JEWS DOOMED

Emigration To Palestine The Only Way Out

London July 13. Millions of Jews to-day are doomed to extermination. This statement was made by a delegate from Palestine in a speech to the International Trades Union Congress in London yesterday.

In Palestine, he declared, Jewish workers were exposed to murderous attacks, their crops were burned, and the work of years was destroyed. Yet Palestine represented the last and only hope of the Jewish people.

Because of persecution by German Nazis 30,000 German Jews had taken refuge in Palestine during the last few years. "Jewish persecution is not limited to Nazi Germany," he said. "In nearly all the countries of Eastern Europe anti-Semitism in one form or another is being fostered under Fascist auspices. Millions of Jews to-day are doomed to extermination."

"The only way out is emigration to Palestine, where they can find work and a home."

JEWS' FATE IN SOVIET

"Jewish workers do not come to Palestine as invaders. They are creating new land by draining swamps and establishing new industries and towns."

He said that even in Russia Jewish people were being sent to concentration camps and he opposed the resolution proposing that the International Federation of Trade Unions should negotiate with the Trade Union Centre of the Soviet Union and the Red International of Trade Unions with a view to concentration and collaboration.

Mr. Martens (Belgium) proposed that the resolution should be referred to a special commission, which could report it in amended form, and this was agreed upon.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB

South China District Conference

PROGRAMME OUTLINED

The "Y's Men's Club" are holding their South China District Conference in Hong Kong beginning Saturday, August 1, and an ambitious programme has been mapped out for its members.

Recently the "Y's Men's Club" of Durban, South Africa was given its charter, with Mr. John Hunt as Secretary. Mr. Hunt was the Secretary of the European Y.M.C.A. in Kowloon.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

Dr. Arthur W. Woo, District Governor of South China will deliver the following message at the Conference:—

The message I have for this conference is one that is in the minds of every Y'sman. It is this: "To acknowledge the duty that accompanies every right"—the motto of every Y's Men's Club throughout the world. The fact that we have decided to hold this conference confirms our acknowledgment of the duty to accomplish what is right. Its success means as much to the individual Y'sman as it does to the individual Club.

During our deliberations many problems of great importance and value to us all will have to be solved; and, whatever we may decide to do let us carry them out. It is a sound maxim that the best way to get things done is to do them. Unless we are so resolved we shall not be able to claim that this conference has been entirely successful. The end of our three days' fun and work is but the beginning of greater service to our community and closer co-operation with clubs in our district. H. K. HOCKEY ASSOCN.

Annual General Meeting

The Hong Kong Hockey Association held its third annual general meeting yesterday at 5.20 p.m. at the St. Andrew's Church Hall, Kowloon. Among those present were:—E. W. Hamilton (Pres.), A. A. Dand (V. Pres.), J. P. Williams (Army), R. C. S. Garwood (Navy), H. Chowdhury (Union), J. S. Greval (Y.M.C.A.), K. Hussain (K.L.T.C.), G. T. Palmer (Y.M.S.A.), A. M. Xavier (Hon. Treas.), F. A. Kemp (Hon. Secy.).

Mr. Hamilton, in the chair, proposed the adoption of the third annual general report and the statement of accounts, which had been already published. The past season, he continued, he could call a most successful one. The interest of hockey had developed, and had continued to spread. Many excellent games had been played, especially those of the interport, it was not just the matter of winning the game, but the spirit that went into the games. The only thing that was lacking, he thought, was the lack of support in the social functions, which, however, might be attributed to the depression. It would hardly be expected of people to attend dinners and so on if they did not have the money to spend. He was certain that things would improve later on.

One point of interest was that the general run of play was very good. Thanks were due to the good umpiring, because there were more rules in hockey than any other game that he could think of.

The report and statement of accounts were passed unanimously.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The present, Hon. Secy., had imparted the news to Mr. Hamilton that he found it impossible to continue with his work in the association, as the pressure of other duties weighed heavily on him.

The President asked for nominations to succeed the present holder of the office, but Mr. Xavier suggested that since Mr. Kemp had done such a very good job the past year, they might propose him for the secretaryship again provisionally. It was seconded by Mr. Dand.

In reply, Mr. Kemp said that the pressure of business was too much for him to keep up with the amount of work he had to do for the Association, but he was willing to carry on for another two months.

The President then said that a council would call for nominations at the end of those two months to nominate a successor. This was unanimously seconded.

Mr. Hamilton was re-elected to the Presidency of the Association for another year.

Mr. Dand was also re-elected to the Vice-Presidency (Civilian).

For the Army Vice-Presidency: Major Campbell; Navy Vice-Presidency: Com. Wauchope.

Hon. Treas.: A. M. Xavier (re-elected).

SUCCESSFUL SWIMMING GALA

At The Chinese Bathing Club

A most successful swimming gala was held on Wednesday night at the Chinese Bathing Club, there being an extremely large turn out of members and friends. A very well-staged and carried out programme was greatly enjoyed, and the prizes were distributed by Mr. Aw Boon Haw, the well-known business man and philanthropist.

Not the least part of the night's enjoyment was the distribution of over 1,000 cups of "Ovaltine" the well-known tonic food beverage, amongst members and friends.

At a very attractive stand where two "Ovaltine" Girls were in attendance, cups of this delicious beverage either cold or hot were dispensed.

The enthusiasm of swimmers for "Ovaltine" was very evident by the fact that in the early part of the evening, the "Ovaltine" Girls were literally besieged by crowds clamouring for "Ovaltine."

The great popularity of "Ovaltine" amongst swimmers and in fact everyone, is ample proof of the high quality and health-building properties of this tonic food beverage.

Hong on the 5th November. The shipping company informed me that the ship was nearly booked up already, and that unless I confirmed this at once, I should be unable to get a passage until their next ship sailing in November.

I accordingly cabled to-day to you as follows:—

"Booked Potosdam remittance urgently required to-morrow." Immediately on receipt of the remittance I will give in my Notice here, pay the passage money, and confirm the booking. I assume that we shall be able to agree to terms on my arrival, somewhat on the lines of those set out in my letter to you of the 24th instant.

I have a lease of my present house for 3 years, and a lot of furniture, which I shall have to dispose of somehow.

I do not know what has happened out there. Whether Loseby has died suddenly or what, but of course I shall hear in time.

I hope the new arrangement will be most successful. I shall make a hobby of my office work when I come out again. I have had 5 years wonderful experience down here, and learn how important the office is. Really I was awfully bad before. I might have been good in Court and had a reputation but for good solid work and hard thinking. I was thoroughly second rate.

Kind regards to all.—Yours sincerely,

(Signed) C. A. S. Russ.

JOINT LENDERS

Mr. K. K. Wong to whom the letters are addressed, had been one of the three joint lenders of money to the respondent under the agreement of August 1928. He was in 1935 under articles to Mr. Loseby of the firm of Russ and Co., and is an unqualified person.

The respondent's case is that on receipt of the first cablegram he assumed that Mr. Wong had been admitted as a solicitor, or would be so admitted before he, the respondent, could arrive in Hong Kong, and that the offer was that the respondent should practice as a solicitor in Hong Kong in partnership with Mr. Russell and Mr. Wong, both duly qualified. The respondent adds that he had been informed and believed that Mr. Loseby, who took over from him the firm of Russ and Co., was dead, a belief which is happily premature, and that in that belief he considered his prospects in Hong Kong with congenial partners sufficiently bright to justify his giving up his employment in England.

The respondent does not appear to have made any proper enquiries, in fact he does not allege that he did so. He himself put it no higher than that on receipt of the first cablegram he assumed that Wong was or shortly would be qualified, and that he was being offered a partnership. The new arrangements were clearly not to be in any way like the old ones: there is nothing to suggest the relations of debtor and creditor. In the plainest terms the letters indicate the respondent's readiness to join Wong either as a partner or as an employee who in addition to his salary is to receive a share in the profits. They constitute, in the words of the third charge, an offer by the said Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ to enter into an association "to carry on the practice of a solicitor with a person not duly qualified to act as an attorney or solicitor."

TO PAY OWN COST

Has there been, throughout the argument on this case, anything disclosed which would justify the respondent in believing that Mr. K. K. Wong was a qualified man and that the offer which he was making was one to which no taint of professional misconduct might attach? I have been unable to discover any matter of excuse. On the contrary, the respondent's conduct in writing these letters displays such a lack of prudence and is inspired by such a determination to close with the offer at once and to resume practice in Hong Kong regardless of the status of Wong, that I am forced to the conclusion that the respondent had no good grounds for his assumption that Wong had qualified as a solicitor and cared not whether he was qualified or not.

Such a reckless disregard of the ethics of the profession to which he belongs constitutes, in my opinion, disgraceful and dishonourable conduct as a Solicitor, and I therefore find that the third charge has

PETTY LARCENIES FROM DOCK

TWO CASES BEFORE COURT

"This is an everyday occurrence" said Sub-Inspector P. Kellett in prosecuting Tam Fung 40, charged with larceny, of an iron shackle from the Kowloon Docks, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

"A new method of concealment was finding favour with thieves," said the prosecuting officer. "They hid the stolen parts in their trousers, suspended by a giraffe around their body, between the legs. Searchers were told not only to pass their hands over the pocket and under the arm pits."

Accused who admitted several previous convictions for various offences, was fined $10 or in default, one month's jail. Lam Kwan, 51, odd job coolie also charged before Mr. Himsworth with the theft of brass parts valued at $1.00, from the Kowloon Docks, was fined $5 or two weeks' jail. Sub-Inspector Kellett said that Lam was stopped and searched by a detective in Wuhu Street. Accused admitted stealing from the docks. The brass was hidden under a giraffe.

Sergeant G. Marriott of the Dock Police, appeared as complainant in both cases.

CAPITAL TO BE REDUCED

Approval Granted By Court

In a hearing before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, K.C., the Hong Kong Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., made a petition to reduce their capital.

Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro, Jr., appearing on behalf of the Hong Kong Shanghai Hotel Ltd., said that all the statutory requirements, as well as the requirements of practice, had been complied with, and he merely confirmed the reduction of the company.

In asking His Lordship to approve the petition for the reduction of the capital, Mr. D'Almada said that the petitions need not be published in Shanghai, but only in two of the newspapers in the Colony.

His Lordship replied that the "North China Daily News" might be added to the advertisements in petitioning, and concluded with saying, "you may make the order for a draft in the terms of the petition with the additional alteration made therein."

£10,710 FOR A DRAWING

London, July 14.

A little piece of cream paper bearing the portrait of Teodoro Leili by Jean Fouquet, the French mid-fifteenth century master, was bought yesterday by Lord Duveen for 10,200 guineas at the sale at Christie's of the Oppenheimer art collection. This was the third day of the sale, which will continue for another twelve days, and so far £91,958 has been realised.

The Leili portrait—described as the highest-priced gem in the collection—set up the biggest figure of the sale and was an auction record for a drawing. There was no lull in the bidding for this portrait (acquired by Oppenheimer for about £4,000), and right and left the nods were taken as 100-guinea challenges. There was laughter when 8,000 guineas was called and Lord Duveen went to the easel to see if his challenge were warranted.

Leili was Papal legate with the Bishop of Ostia on a mission to Louis XI of France.

been proved against the respondent. The order of the Court is that Mr. Charles Andrew Sutherland Russ be suspended from the practice of his profession as a Solicitor for the period of 12 months from to-day.

The respondent has succeeded on two of the three issues before the Court, and in my view justice will be met by an order that each party pay his own costs.

SEIZED PROPERTY

CLAIM HEARD IN SUMMARY COURT

In the Summary Court, presided over by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, there was heard the beginning of an interpleading, between the Hoi Lee Co., and the Shing Hing Fish Land Co., for the disputed possession of furniture.

The claimants, the Hoi Lee Co., was represented by Mr. C. E. R. Sanderson, and Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the judgment creditors.

Before the proceedings began Mr. Sanderson said that he had come prepared to accept the onus of the goods seized by the bailiff. His clients claimed all the furniture, excepting a safe, 2 scales, 4 mirrors, and a small desk.

Mr. Silva rose and said that as his first witness was Mr. Peter H. Sin, and that the witnesses did not want to be detained any longer than necessary, he asked His Lordship for permission to bring him to the witness box, and then have his services dispensed with. Upon His Lordship's approval, Mr. Sin went to the witness box, and was examined by Mr. Silva.

FOKI OR PARTNER

Mr. Sin said that he had been originally instructed by the firm of Hoi Lee, the claimants in the case, that the Hoi Lee Co., was the principal tenant. The person he interviewed was named, Chan Chung Wai, on behalf of the Hoi Lee Co., who might have been a foki or a partner.

Upon cross-examination by Mr. Sanderson, Mr. Sin said that the signature at the bottom of the letter was signed by his chief clerk, who had taken instructions first, and then brought in the client to the office.

Chung Chi Lau, in the witness box, deposed that he lived at 25, Chung Yuen Street, Canton. He was in the Hoi Lee Co., as a partner, with head offices at Canton. There was a branch office at Hong Kong, at 17, Jubilee Street, second floor, which was started on February, 1936.

Ip Yui Lam was in charge of the branch office, in the capacity of manager, but was not a partner. A part of the premises was rented from the Shing Hing Fish Land Co., and Ip had negotiated the lease. The receipts were for six months, at $20.00 a month. He claimed all the furniture as belonging to the firm, excepting those that were already mentioned. The furniture had been bought in Canton, and sent down to Hong Kong by steamer, for which trouble the shipping were presented with some "tea" money. There was no record of shipping the furniture from the office to the branch.

When Mr. Silva cross-examined him, he admitted that he did not know Chan Chung Wai, nor by his alias of Chung Wai Tong, nor was he a relative of his. Chan was not connected with the Hoi Lee Co., in any capacity. He had instructed Russ and Co., himself, and Ip had instructed Peter H. Sin and Co.

He admitted that a placard had been placed in front of the Hoi Lee Co.'s, premises.

NOT A FRAUDULENT CLAIM

His partner, Ip Tze Hing, was in Canton, and he disclaimed that their claim to get the furniture away from judgment creditor was a fraudulent one. He was only claiming their own property, as he himself bought the furniture in Canton.

Ip Yui Lam, next in the witness box, said that he was the manager of the Hoi Lee Co., for which premises, they paid $20.00 a month. They shared the floor with the Shing Hing Fish Land Co., a carpenter, Lau Kee, made the sign-board for them.

He received the furniture from the head office. He had instructed Mr. Sin's clerk, and told him that the Company was the sub-tenant on the floor, but discovered the mistake quite a while after.

Upon cross-examination by Mr. Silva, he said that all the dates on receipts, etc., were wrong. He was not the cashier, nor was he employed by the Shing Hing Fish Land Co. He did not know who Chan Chung Wai was. If Mr. Sin saw Chan he did not know who that could have been, but he certainly did not see Mr. Sin.

Hearing at this stage was adjourned to Tuesday morning.

ORGANISING FIRE BRIGADES ON WAR FOOTING

Proposed Grant Of £1,000,000 A Year

"VERY GREAT DANGER" OF AIR RAID CONFLAGRATIONS

Reserves Of Men And Engines

London July 11.

Special measures for putting the fire brigades of the country on a war footing to deal with fires caused by air raids are recommended by the Departmental Committee on Fire Brigade Services, whose report was issued last night. An Exchequer grant of £1,000,000 a year to the brigades is recommended.

The Committee, of which Lord Riverdale was chairman, saw experiments with incendiary bombs, and says it has been deeply impressed by the country's need for organised protection against the air menace. The present peace-time organisation of the fire brigades and strength in men and appliances are, in the Committee's opinion, quite insufficient to meet the special war risks—in particular, the risk of multiple fires caused by light bombs, the conflagration risk, and the risk of incendiary attack on places of national importance.

THE PROPOSALS

War-time measures proposed are:

An organisation of "air raid wardens" to give immediate information and to help in dealing with fires caused by incendiary bombs.

Preparation of supplementary fire brigade schemes of grouping for use in future Defence of the Realm Regulations.

State recognition of fire service as an essential factor in the scheme of national defence.

An Exchequer grant of £1,000,000 a year to the brigades, chiefly for development purposes.

A definite statement from the Government as to the extent of Exchequer contributions to local authorities against the fire risks associated with air raids.

Inspection of first brigade appliances, equipment, and personnel to accompany the introduction of an Exchequer grant to ensure the maintenance of proper standards of efficiency.

The Committee proposes the constitution of area organisations during peace-time, but it wishes for a "regional" organisation for war-time purposes, each "region" comprising a number of areas. They should be delimited by the Home Office, who would also appoint regional mobilising officers to be in charge.

"VERY GREAT DANGERS"

Lord Riverdale, chairman of the Committee, said yesterday.

This question of protection against fire caused by air raids is a much more serious matter than the public understands. The dangers are very great. We have not made these recommendations without taking every precaution to investigate the matter for ourselves and to see at tests that these bombs really do the damage we had been told they do. We have been experiments with bombs and it is a danger that must be absolutely guarded against.

HOME OFFICE AND 'PERFECT GAS MASK'

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 14.

The perfect gas-mask—or, as near perfect as is possible—has been found.

Provision for such gas-masks for the civil population is included in the Supplementary Estimates issued to-day.

When the decision was taken to provide the civil population with gas-masks the necessity was fully realised of finding a really effective type of protection.

Experts have long been working on designs, and it is declared that the requisite effectiveness of protection against gas has been achieved in the design finally approved.

The result is that in the estimate the Home Office is taking more money to proceed at once to the production and distribution of the masks for everyone.

MUNITIONS CHIEF FOR BRITAIN

ENGINEER VICE- ADMIRAL SIR HAROLD BROWN

House of Commons, July 14. Mr. Duff Cooper, Secretary for War, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that he had decided to appoint an additional member of the Army Council with the title of Director-General of Munitions Production, to be responsible to him for co-ordinating and expediting the production of munitions in accordance with the programme approved by the Government.

With the assent of the First Lord of the Admiralty (Sir Samuel Hoare), Mr. Duff Cooper said that he had offered the appointment to Engineer Vice-Admiral Sir Harold Brown, Engineer-in-Chief of the Fleet, and he was happy to say that he had accepted the invitation.

Mr. Duff Cooper, replying to questions, said Sir Harold Brown would assist the Master-General of the Ordnance in some of his work.

FOR THE THREE SERVICES

Asked if this co-ordination would extend to the Navy, Mr. Duff Cooper said that, of course, there was certain stores produced by the Army which were required by the Navy and the Air Force, and the co-ordination proposed would extend to them.

Sir Harold Brown joined the Navy in 1894. On the outbreak of the Great War he joined the cruiser Penelope as engineer-officer, being transferred later to the battleship Barham.

In 1920 he returned to the Admiralty as Engineer Inspecting Officer.

In 1927 he became Assistant Engineer-in-Chief. In 1928 he was promoted to Fleet Engineer Officer on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet.

He returned to the Admiralty in April, 1930, as Deputy Engineer-in-Chief. In 1932, became Engineer-in-Chief of the Fleet in succession to Vice-Admiral Sir Reginald Skelton.

GERMANY
WELCOMES
COLONIES HINT

"Fair Declaration"

London, July 14.

The statement by Mr. Pirow, Defence Minister of South Africa, on a territorial compensation of Germany for her former colonies is welcomed in political circles in Berlin to-day as a "manifestation of fairness."

Mr. Pirow, who has just returned from London, said in an interview at Pretoria yesterday: "Very influential quarters in Britain are agreed that there can be no permanent basis for a peaceful agreement with Germany unless the Germans are given adequate compensation for their colonies, meaning territorial compensation, not anywhere on the face of the globe, but in Africa."

"England would welcome an equitable settlement. There have been many political, strategic and economic changes since 1914 which have made the return of South-west Africa or Tanganyika not feasible."

QUESTION OF JUSTICE

The view in Berlin expressed to Reuter was:

"Germany does not regard the colonial problem so much as a question of peace but as a matter of principle, as a question of justice and fairness."

In making this statement Mr. Pirow no doubt also thought of Africa's future. He undoubtedly wanted to express that Germany's presence on the African Continent was desirable.

"This coincides with the German view. Germany holds that it is in the interests of all that colonial solidarity should be strengthened, that as many nations as possible should participate in colonial work."

Apart from that, it was stated, Germany had the natural desire to procure important raw materi-

GOSSIP OF THE WEEK

From Our London Letter

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 9.

When Lord Hugh Cecil takes over the Provost's Lodge at Eton in the autumn he will be setting up an establishment of his own for the first time.

Until now, when not in college rooms at Oxford, he has lived either at Hatfield House or at 21, Arlington-street, the house of his brother, Lord Salisbury. Like his predecessor, Dr. James, he is a bachelor.

It would be difficult to find a pleasanter place to live. Besides having the best garden in Eton, the Provost's Lodge contains some fine 17th and 18th-century furniture and some remarkable pictures. Two of the oldest are Cornelius Jansen's portraits of Queen Elizabeth and the Provost she appointed, Sir Henry Savile.

Equally interesting is the series of "leaving portraits" which 18th-century Etonians presented to the Provosts of the time. These include paintings by Romney, Reynolds and Lawrence. Among the subjects are Charles James Fox and Lord Holland.

SLANG IN THE LORDS

Lord Denning, who spoke in the Lords Bill debate yesterday, has not been very often in the House of Lords of recent years. He took a prominent part in its proceedings as Chairman of Committees from 1911 to 1931.

His earliness is an Irish one, and he sits in the Upper Chamber as Viscount Hutchinson. Since 1921 his attention has been divided between the Imperial Parliament and the Irish Free State Senate. He was a member of the latter body from its inception till its abolition.

Incidentally, their lordships heard slang used in the course of the debate—a rare thing in their House.

Lord Marley, in denouncing the bill, said its effect was to put the payers "in the cart."

BERLIN TAUGHT GOLF

I see that Mr. Basil Newton, the British Minister in Berlin, has been described as Charge d'Affaires in the absence of Sir Eric Phipps, the Ambassador, who is on holiday in this country.

Mr. Newton is, however, a Minister Plenipotentiary and possesses permanently the plenipotentiary powers which are only temporarily conferred on a Charge d'Affaires.

There have been Ministers as well as Ambassadors at the British Embassies in Washington and Paris for some years. It is less than a year since Mr. Newton was thus promoted to bring the Berlin Embassy into line with the other two major capitals.

Mr. Newton is 47 and a bachelor. He came to Berlin from Peking in 1929. He is one of the most enthusiastic members of the syndicate, in which members of the Embassy predominate, which takes a shoot in Bavaria every season. His other sporting enthusiasm is golf.

Berliners pride themselves on the fact that it was the golf courses round their city that first persuaded Mr. Newton to take up the game. He usually plays at one of Berlin's leading clubs near the Wannsee.

PORT LAUREATE'S POLITENESS

Mr. John Masfield spoke yesterday at the annual meeting of the London Library of the days when he was a regular student at the British Museum Library.

The room in which he used to read had various habits. These ranged from an Anglican bishop to a syndicate who might have been working out an infallible system of gambling.

Swinburne—dead and old—was an occasional visitor. He used to read Elizabethan fols and frequently burst out into loud laughter at what Mr. Masfield thought must be their incoherencies.

But the strangest of all the future Port Laureate's fellow-readers was a small, slightly built man with an enigmatic and cynical smile.

One day Mr. Masfield opened the door for him—a gesture which was acknowledged by a smile of a warmer and more personal kind. This mysterious personage was Lenin.

als which she now lacked from her own colonial territories.

With regard to the possibility of compensating Germany with territory other than her former colonies, it is held here that such territory must be inhabitable and of value for Germany holds that she was unjustly deprived of her colonies.

WALL STREET ON THE MOORS

Thanks to the recent great improvement in American business and the striking rise in Wall Street prices, there is likely to be a bigger influx of grouch enthusiasts from the United States this year than for several seasons.

This year's "grouch-ship" will be the Queen Mary, which, sailing from New York on July 29, has been booked to capacity for many months.

Many well-known American shores, who have been prevented by depleted bank accounts during the depression from making their annual trip to Scotland, will be seen again this year on their favourite moors.

There has been more active inquiry for the best shoots than in any year since the crash of 1929.

COMMEMORATING TWO WARS

My illustration to-day is the reverse of the bronze medal—on the obverse is the King of Italy's head—which is to be issued to the Italian troops in Abyssinia. Certain sections of war-workers in Italy are also to have it.

As will be seen, the design includes a symbolical Mount Amba Alaji, with the inscription: "Many enemies, much honour" above Signor Mussolini's signature.

I hear, by the way, that plans have already been drawn out for a great church to be built on the summit of Amba Alaji to commemorate both the present campaign and that of 1896, in which also the mountain played an important part.

The interior is to be decorated with frescoes by Count Calvi di Bergolo. The elder brother of this artist, who has a great reputation in Italy, married Princess Yolanda, King Victor Emmanuel's eldest daughter.

LONELY M.P.

Sympathy for Mr. William Lunn, the Socialist M.P., whose daughter-in-law died in childbirth just before he spoke on the Midwives Bill, was all the greater because M.P.s knew how particularly devoted he is to his family.

He comes up to London every Monday morning from his Rothwell constituency after spending the week-end at home. He is a stolid Yorkshireman, and although he has called his opponents some unparliamentary names, he is well liked at Westminster.

But he has never concealed his low opinion of London.

"When parliament is not sitting I feel lonelier in London than if I were alone in the middle of a moor," he once said.

The son of a coal-miner, eldest of a family of eight, he began work in the pit at the age of 12.

Brass band contests delight him, and he himself plays the euphonium.

TO PLAY TENNIS WELL, UMPIRE

If you want to improve your game at lawn tennis, act as umpire. This is one of the pieces of advice in "Hints on Umpiring," by Dr. F. H. Pearce, whom Wimbledon has known in that capacity for over 30 years.

He tells the story of a woman player in a provincial tournament who brought in a score sheet and asked if she could play her single at once.

The late B. C. Kveleg, who was in charge, said that he never asked a player to go straight from the umpire's chair on to the court.

She replied, "One of those players has a very useful stroke which I haven't seen before, and I want to practise it before I forget how she made it."

Dr. Pearce also recommends umpiring as a nerve sedative. He says that umpiring some "quiet handie" is the best way to forget the anxiety of the coming match.

PARACHUTIST'S CEILING

Parachute descents from a few hundred feet—such as Pilot-Sgt. Davies made near Rochester when his machine caught fire—are naturally risky.

Two thousand feet is the lowest height at which practice parachute descents are made.

A jump at 500ft means that in the most favourable circumstances the parachute would not open fully till the airman was about 200ft above the ground.

This would give just sufficient time for his fall to be reduced to nearly the normal rate of descent by the time he reached terra firma.

On the other hand, a parachute opening at 200ft would not save the

WAITING FOR THE SUN

On Loch Lomond

PATIENCE A VIRTUE
IN FILM-MAKING

London, July 8.

I was introduced to a new game of patience yesterday—waiting for the sun for film-making, writes a correspondent.

With cameras trainee don Tarbet Pier, on Loch Lomond, ready to "shoot" final exterior scenes in the new Dolly Haas and Richard Barthelmess film "Spy of Nanoleon" (the original title, "Fall of an Empire," has been dropped), sound apparatus men waiting the world of command from Maurice Elvey, and the loch steamer Princess Patricia standing by for the signal to come alongside—we waited.

Miss Haas, a smiling, petite figure in period costume, chatted about Scotland and her native Germany; Richard Barthelmess strolled down from the hotel, discovered that the scenes in which he would appear were not in immediate prospect, and cheerfully warned me of a long wait.

HANGING AROUND

"You'll be surprised," he commented, "at the length of time we've got to hang around for the 'shooting' of outdoor scenes."

And "extras"—young men and women from Glasgow, clad in the costumes of 1870—sat at tables of an open-air cafe, and others strolled up and down the pier—waiting for the sun.

But they all took it philosophically. "Patience—a lot of it—is what's needed most in this film business," grinned Maurice Elvey, who is directing the film, as, characteristically, he pulled at a cigar—and then buried himself behind a newspaper.

And mark this—the weather was good, as we in Scotland know it, after a morning of rain, but the sunny brightness which is necessary was not there.

SUDDEN ACTIVITY

So for hours we waited, everything in readiness for the moment when the sun should appear in all its glory. Then suddenly there came activity. Elvey and his staff peered skywards through coloured glass, directions were rapped out—and the sun gleamed.

"Lovely blue sky," came a delighted shout from the director. "Shoot!" And at his word cameras whirled softly, the stirs of the Princess Patricia hoisted triumphantly, and the vessel swept in towards the pier—which for the day was Geneva—and nineteenth-century figures walked along the pier and on board. "Cut!" The scene was over.

Hours of waiting for a "shot" that took but a few minutes! But there was more to come. The arrival of one of the regular passenger steamers interrupted the activity, and the sun momentarily vanished behind a cloud.

AFTER THE SEY

Only a short wait this time, and then once more cameras were in motion, and we saw Richard Barthelmess run along the pier, pause for a moment, and hurry on board the ship which, as runs the story of the film, he had seen his fiancée board along with a man who he knows to be a spy.

The most dramatic scene of the film, in which Barthelmess rescues Marjorie Mars after she has jumped overboard, is still to come. It will be "shot" from aboard ship out in the loch—probably the last scene to be taken.

Miss Mars, by the way, was one of those who yesterday just waited and who took advantage of the opportunity to whizz over Loch Lomond in a motor boat.

There was a clean bill of health in the Colony for the 24 hours ended on Wednesday.

airman if he had already dropped from any considerable height.

50-CENTIME ROYALISTS

Young French Royalists have invented an ingenious method of advertising their political sympathies now that their militant organizations—the Camelots du Roi and the Ligue de l'Action Française—have been dissolved.

As a badge they wear in the buttonhole a 50-centime piece. This is a punning reflection on the present position, as it represents "dix sous"—"dissois" (dissolved).

The legend "Liberte Egalite Fraternite" has been altered to "Liberte, Liberte, Liberte."

PHILIPPINE MINING TO BE ENCOURAGED

U.S. Oil Companies Asked To Survey Fields

It is the policy of the Commonwealth government to do all it can to encourage the development of the mining industry. President Manuel L. Quezon told his press conference yesterday.

He declared that the government will fight all proposals to assess excessive mining taxes and all devices and measures which might tend to scare away capital which is needed to build up this industry.

The President definitely announced that this administration will not permit the enactment of legislation which would greatly increase the tax on mines, virtually pointing out that the government would not "kill the goose that lays the golden eggs" for the national treasury.

TO INVITE OIL FIRMS

As a definite proposal from Commonwealth officials, President Quezon would invite reputable oil corporations to come to the Philippines to survey or explore the Philippine oil fields, and if oil is found in commercial quantities, the government would be willing to enter into a contract with them for their exploitation on the basis of royalty paid to the government.

The President expressed regret that the Standard Vacuum, which was interested in the making of a geological survey of the Islands for oil and which would have invested capital for oil exploitation if found, has been driven away by the recent oil-promotion scandal. The President explained that it was not his purpose to discourage legitimate investment but that he wanted to protect the public from being fleeced by get-rich-quick promoters who had nothing to sell since it had never been established that oil existed in quantities which would justify flooding the local market with oil stock.

REGRETS FAILURE

He likewise expressed regret that the government made little success in its attempt to punish alleged violators of the Blue Sky and corporation laws in connection with the oil promotion boom. He said that the material witnesses from both the government and the outside public have turned against the government and for the defendants.

"If the public wants to be robbed let it be robbed as far as I am concerned," the President declared, after explaining how little backing his efforts to put a stop to stock watering activities received from the public.

President Quezon said that a slight increase in the present tax on mining companies may be the present tax properly encouraged the industry can produce enough to counteract the loss of the American trade.

For this reason, it is essential that the government use sound judgment in dealing with the industry.

Replying to questions, President Quezon said that the land law does not limit the extent or area which may be exploited or developed by one corporation for mining purposes. What is prohibited is the interlocking of directorships among mining firms. He said that under the corporation law one corporation may not own more than 30 per cent of the shares of stock or capital of another mining firm.
